

Short Session of Council on Monday

A very short session of the town council was held at the regular meeting last Monday evening. Mayor Bott was in the chair and the following members present: Messrs. Leamouth, Broughton, Keats, Oakland, Wells, and Stone.

After the reading and adoption of the minutes a letter was read from the Gorman-Glancy Company giving an estimate of the cost of equipment and installation of an additional pump which the council is considering putting in the pump station. As there were some items in the agreement which did not meet with the approval of the council the secretary was instructed to communicate with the company in order to get more satisfactory arrangements before proceeding further.

The action of the mayor in appointing the town superintendent to act as police during E. Everett's absence, was approved by council.

The attention of the council was drawn to the fact that the town had been deliberately destroying the sidewalks in order to drain the water off their property. Judging from the opinions expressed it may look for some protection if this practice is persisted in.

Several complaints were also registered about the irregularity of the collection of garbage and the apparent lack of system in this work.

Mrs. Colwell Dies Suddenly at Coast

It was a great shock to the many friends of Mrs. James Colwell to learn that this estimable lady had died suddenly at Victoria on Thursday, March 11th. For some time Mrs. Colwell had been suffering from pernicious anemia and early in December last she and Mr. Colwell left for Victoria, B. C. in the hope that the change would improve her health. During the early weeks of their visit deceased showed great improvement and for a time it was thought she was on a fair way to recovery. Towards the end of February, however, there was a noticeable change for the worse and the patient gradually grew weaker, until she finally passed away. All though her illness the deceased bore her lot with that same patient, Christian fortitude which was characteristic of her whole life. The remains were interred in the Victoria cemetery and after the funeral Mr. Colwell returned to Redcliff to break the sad news to his four sons who are left to mourn the loss of a kind, loving and devoted mother.

To those upon whose home the heavy hand of bereavement has fallen with such suddenness the highest sympathy of their many friends is extended at this time.

New Doctor is Coming to Redcliff

Officers of the Redcliff and District Welfare Association have been successful in their efforts to secure a doctor for Redcliff. Today the president received definite word from Dr. S. R. McGregor stating that he would be in town next Tuesday ready for the practice of his profession and to settle he is permanently.

Dr. McGregor arrived in town this morning from Edmonton and looking it over was not long in deciding to locate here. He is returning to the capital city tonight to get his office fixtures and other belongings and expects to be back in Redcliff next Tuesday.

The new doctor is a young man who took part in the Great War and gained a wide experience in the hospitals on the battlefield and in sea hospitals. He first returned to Canada to take a post graduate course in Glasgow, Scotland.

Marital law throughout Ireland gave Master is now an isolated on every side. It is fully believed that the trouble will again be removed of a big scale. The increase in successful attempts on the lives of constables is merely a beginning of the new era now planned. Some support is given such statements by the fact that through violent crimes are denounced in unmeasured terms by the highest church authorities, no attention seems to be paid to these constables on the church.

SCHOOL NEWS.

The members of the Literary with an exposure of their stative acquaintance toward Mr. Colwell's family on account of their recent bereavement.

Once more our new membership been acquainted. Quinn McKay, the last school and began his business career as a member of the Imperial bank staff.

The Literary concert which was to have been held on the 19th, has been miserably postponed as some of the members could not attend.

Annie Garland, one of the Grade VIII girls, is leaving soon for Britain Columbia with her parents.

Harold—What did you get in chemistry, Tom?

Tom—Acid all over my clothes.

—Our Literary Record.

A good many of the scholars and one or two of the teachers have quite had to let us hope they will not be serious.

Contributions toward the Athletic Association will be gratefully accepted. All who desire information on this subject may apply to Lloyd Colwell.

It is interesting to note the progress that some of the pupils are making with their studies. A very large percentage of them are taking in play on some musical instrument or other. This adds a real zest to the variety of the program as well as to the local talent.

There was a young man named Prince.

Who wanted to buy a balloon? A Record ad he tried.

And was well satisfied.

For now he's on his way to the moon.

—Our Literary Record.

We certainly have had some good athletes in the Redcliff J. H. school. One of the top-ups, Norm Bonkhorst, has several times won the front page of the Record. The pictures have all been well used. Let us not dishonor their reputation.

We have noticed during the past few days that pompousness are coming rapidly into fashion. Tom Bly and Elsie have magnificent ones. It is to be supposed that they have a real one and that Harold Fountain will soon follow their example.

The showing of gum during school hours is a thing prohibited in the Grade VIII and high school rooms. Whistling is also to a great extent suppressed. It is the writer's hope that if the teachers remain as abhorrent in these matters it will be better for all concerned.

The Literary Society of the Redcliff High School held their regular half monthly meeting and program on Friday, the 19th. All of the numbers were well delivered, the most interesting being taken in the reading of the literary paper by Grace Welliver. These Friday afternoon concerts tend greatly to add enthusiasm to school work and it is to be hoped that they are continued.

The boys of Grade VII and VIII, also those of the high school are also going to prepare for the commencement of the summer sports. A meeting was called in the high school room on Monday to that effect. At present no attention will be given to the organizing of basketball tournaments, but in a few weeks we shall endeavor to form an association for the promotion of other sports.

Several days ago during the civics lesson in Miss Smith's room the girls quite calmly chewed gum, while Bill Clark, with an air of quietude proceeded to fill up the side with his feet. For some time nothing was said but at last the teacher could no longer contain such a slight. "Willie," she said quietly, "please remove your feet from the aisle" and you, she continued to Grace, "will put your gum away." Both obeyed but again the spirit of mischief prevailed and we saw them as before. Her patience now exhausted Miss Smith at once proceeded to call them down in the following manner, with a voice of suppressed anger, "Grace," she thundered, "take them out of your mouth, and write for goodness sake, put your feet in."

OPPORTUNITY TO GRAB TAKEN REDFLIFE NEXT WEEK

Government Representative Will be Here on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday--In Suffield Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

As time was passing without any definite word regarding the securing of government land, and as the season was rapidly approaching and the farm life of the surrounding district was becoming serious, the officers of the district and District Welfare Association took the matter up with government officials at Medicine Hat, and also got in touch with Hon. C. S. Phipps, our representative who is now in Edmonton attending the session of the legislature.

The result has been most satisfactory. Mr. Phipps was of the opinion that officials were already at this work, but when informed that they were not it was only a matter of a few weeks till he had the whole in operation and notified the Review of the completion of arrangements which we have no doubt will meet with the approval of all concerned.

Owing to the lateness of the season and the present bad condition of the roads officers of the R. & D. W. A. requested that a government official be placed in Redcliff to receive applications from farmers of this district to facilitate matters and thus save the farmers considerable inconvenience and extra expense. Mr. Phipps was not slow to see the reasonableness of this request and almost immediately arranged to take T. Elliott with him here for that purpose. According to present arrangements Mr. Elliott will be in Redcliff on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week, March 28, 30th and 31st. On Thursday, Friday and Saturday of the same week he will be in Suffield for the same purpose. On the same days of the week following Mr. Elliott will again visit these two places and will be continued until the work is completed.

We do not know yet where Mr. Elliott will have his headquarters in town, but if farmers when they come town for this purpose, will enquire at this office we will be pleased to give them this information.

The Bowell U.F.A. Blames Manufacturers

An important meeting of the Bowell U. F. A. was held in the school house, Saturday, March 20th. Mr. Geo. Lem, president, presiding. The committee proceeded to investigate the erection of a dipping tank reported having been interviewed Mr. Hargreaves, veterinary inspector, who informed the committee the government will contribute £400 towards the expense of the erection of same. The committee was requested to give further particulars and meet at next meeting. The idea is to have a central dipping tank for this neighborhood, as the nearest is 30 miles away and too far to drive milk cows. It will be a great acquisition to this district.

Final arrangements were made to hold the kitchen in the school basement for the use of the U. F. W. A. for their social events. All members are to assist next Saturday in doing the work. Messrs G. and A. Lemon have kindly contributed the stove and Mr. E. Pascoot is supplying the lumber. The committee is also looking for the market price, and the thanks of the local is extended to these gentlemen for their consideration in doing the work. A resolution was also sent the Manufacturers Association for withdrawing their advertisements from the local is extended to these gentlemen for their consideration in doing the work. A resolution was also sent the Manufacturers Association for withdrawing their advertisements from the local is extended to these gentlemen for their consideration in doing the work.

There was also a discussion re forming to parliamentary rules in the conduct of meetings. It was decided that the U. F. A. and U. F. W. A. are going strong. News in the local is extended to these gentlemen for their consideration in doing the work.

ADDITIONAL LOCALS

D. L. Stone, of Saskatoon, spent a day in town this week and his wife, L. Stone.

The Brooks Bulletin says: "S. Murphy, of Redcliff, has purchased A. S. Young's blacksmith shop. He will sign up for business the first of next month."

R. R. Stiller left on Tuesday of this week for Calgary on business. From here he will go to California to spend a few weeks with Mrs. Stiller and the boys.

Joseph Selzer, who was taken suddenly ill last Sunday, was taken to the Redcliff Hospital on Monday of this week. It is expected he will have to undergo a serious operation.

Messrs. G. G. Patterson and A. R. Argue left on Sunday's noon train for the Pacific coast. It is their intention to spend a few weeks visiting different sections of the coast, probably before definitely deciding where they will permanently locate. In the departure of these two visitors, Redcliff is losing two respected and promising young men, and their many friends here wish them every success in whatever district they may cast their lot.

Fred Wolfrey, who has been living on his home in the south end of the town, died last Monday morning, having been ill for some time. He was a native of this country and was a well known figure in the community. The funeral took place on Tuesday afternoon and the remains were interred in the Redcliff cemetery.

Protect Securities In Irrigation District

Terms upon which the province of Alberta intends to protect mortgage securities in irrigation districts under that irrigation boards may be made the first lien on lands became known at the capital Friday. It is proposed, and has been agreed to by the mortgage and loan company, representatives, that in cases in irrigation districts where the mortgagee has failed to pay up water right charges, and the lands are being sold under the hammer, the government can buy such mortgages at a price of 75 per cent of the principal and the mortgagee against any loss on the security. The government can then sell the land to the mortgagee.

Attorney-General J. R. Boyle believes that as a matter of fact, the risk of any loss is negligible, but says the arrangement satisfies the mortgagee and relieves the province of any accusation of bad faith as regards original mortgage holders.

Canadian Naval Force To Be Disbanded

PEOPLE, BOOKS AND THINGS

A WEEKLY CAUSERE OF CASUAL THINGS—TREATED IN LIGHTER VEIN.

R. C. EDWARDS AND HIS UNIQUE PAPER—A WEST- ERN INSTITUTION—THE LUCK OF THE NAVY—A BRITISH SENTIMENT—A NAVAL BATTLE.

The inimitable R. C. Edwards of the Calgary "Eycoper," is responsible for the following story. I have not a copy of his paper by me, and I cannot, therefore, tell it in his own graphic way—no other than himself can do that well as I can.

The Hearst papers which—borrow from Frank Oliver—may well be described as belonging to the tribe of journalistic profligates, after doing all they could to keep America out of the war, indulged in quite a lot of "sob stuff" that was as absurd as it was untrue. They featured a story of General Pershing to the effect, that when that blunt and somewhat matter-of-fact soldier first reached Paris he immediately made a pilgrimage to the grave of Lafayette, and laying a wreath of American roses upon the grave, said with a voice choked with emotion, "Lafayette, we are here."

Mr. Edwards rises to remark that there is a sequel to this story, which was not published in any of the Hearst papers. He says that after Pershing had bestowed his pious posey upon the grave, and had wiped the tears from his eyes, he was startled to observe a submarine movement. Lafayette turned himself around in his coffin, and remarked in hollow grave-yard tones, "Well, what about it? where in Hell have you been for the last three years?"

You can always get some real meat out of the "Eycoper" and what R. C. Edwards has to say is worth listening to. He is without exception the best critical writer in the west and perhaps in all Canada. He is witty and pungent, and has the wit of a witty Scotchman. We have the authority of Irving Cobb that when a Scotchman has the real gift he has an Irishman's beating of the block. Ourselves, we will not dare an opinion. Mr. Edwards sometimes camouflages what he has to say under a somewhat flippant style, but the meat is always there. He is almost a perfect master of the King's English, and given time and occasion he can rise to eloquent passages. He has said some pretty plain things in the "Eycoper," and has got into disrepute with the self-righteous as a consequence, but after all the wrong he has ever done, he has been to call a spade a spade, and he writes of real things as they happen in this western country. He is on the side of those who suffer oppression, and he has always been a terror to evil-doers, of the meanest type. Through a lot of writing that pharisees may call improper, and which is often risqué, there is a strong clear note of patriotism, fairness, and a broad human tolerance. Some bitter attacks have been made upon public personalities, but Mr. Edwards is no wanton hater; he never goes after anyone unless there is in his opinion a good public end to serve.

His unique paper wields a great deal of influence, and there is little doubt that had its proprietor desired he might have made advantageous alliances; but he has steered clear of them. Once some one suggested that he was actuated by a desire for personal profit. I do not remember the exact words in which he replied to this attack, but they were something as follows: "This little rag has stood for a whole lot of things but never have we stood for shame or disgrace; so far as we may judge we have never championed injustice or wrong, and whatever may be said about us, we never will."

In his own city and amongst those who know him R. C. Edwards is popular and well esteemed. He is one of the quietest and most unassuming of men, and he has an intimate knowledge of this country in which he has journeyed for the last thirty years. He can and does describe the west, and its people, and its customs, in happier vein than anyone else. There are lots of people who find fault with his paper but most of them read it when they get a chance. Whatever may be said of him, or the "Eycoper," he is a gentleman. Indeed he could not come from the strain that he goes and be anything else. He belongs to one of those great Scottish literary families which united excellent business acumen with splendid literary ability, and which are peculiar to Edinburgh. He is a grandson of Dr. Robert Chambers, who in his day was one of the most esteemed citizens of "Modern Athens," and who with his brother founded the Chamber Publishing Company, which for many years has been a Scottish landmark. "Bob" Edwards is a western institution built upon a pretty firm foundation.

I saw another good play in a western theatre the other evening—or rather I saw some excellent acting for the play, despite the applause which greeted it, depended for its success more upon the acting than the construction. It was a rather stereotyped melodrama and was called "The Luck of the Navy." It was rapturously received by a capacity house. The members of the company were uniformly good, and there was nothing weak amongst them. One of the chief merits in the whole performance to my mind, was the real portrayal of British life amongst the officers of the navy, and the fine British sentiments which were expressed. We have seen too much of American ideas and American nationalism on the boards of our play houses and the movies in this country are a damned sight more familiar with American uniforms than with the khaki of our own men and with Yankee battleships than British ones. As a matter of fact after the British navy had been trying up Germany for a couple of years, the Americans did not have a ship afloat fit to enter battle with a modern enemy.

Lots of people will recall the sea fight that Admiral Beatty had with a German squadron. The Germans had been engaged on one of their raids against defenceless English watering places, and were beating it for home across the North Sea, when Beatty with his cruiser squadron came galloping up. The Germans had a good start, but Britain's fighting admiral, with forced draft and decks cleared for action, was racing them. Beatty himself led the van in his flagship the Lion. As the day declined and the enemy were approaching their own mine field, it was seen that the British fleet would have difficulty in forcing an action. A gun was shoved on the furnace, and every effort strained to come up with the raiders and out some of them off. The Lion gained upon the rearward of the German ships. The last one was the Blücher and the Lion was steadily overhauling her. As the flagship approached within cannon range the Blücher opened fire, but she came on with every British officer and sailor at his station, and not a gun was fired in reply. Steadily she drew up on the German ship, and as she came level she turned a broadside on her and sunk her. Admiral Beatty held on his way after the other German ships and a number of British destroyers galloped out of the line to pick up the Germans who were struggling in the water.

The point of this story is that the American navy at that time had about two ships that were in a superior class to the Blücher, which was out-footed and put out of business by Admiral Beatty in an action that lasted rather less than three minutes.

Facts Worth Remembering

Salt used in water when washing prints prevents colours from running.

When putting blouses away, place a sheet of tissue paper between each.

A fine grater is much better than a knife for removing the surface of bread or cake that is burned.

When making a cornflour shape, put one teaspoonful of syrup in the saucepan with the milk. No sugar will be required.

To prevent steam forming between a pie tin and the bottom of a one-crust pie, bore one or two small holes in the centre of the tin, and the steam will escape.

To remove paint from glass, mix a strong solution of soda, and newly slaked lime together, put on tea glass, leave for an hour, and then wash off.

A box of sand should always be kept close at hand where paraffin lamps are burnt, as a little thrown on burning oil (in case of accident) will speedily extinguish the flames.

Never waste scraps of fat meat or dripping; they should be melted down and clarified. You will then always have some pure dripping in readiness for cooking purposes.

If you want your grains to look very bright, rub it over with just a little turpentine after black-leading and shining. Then polish with a soft duster. It will look well for days.

To make a chocolate mould, boil two breakfasts of milk, leaving out a little to mix with one tablespoonful of cornflour, same of cocoa and sugar. Stir over the fire five minutes. Pour into a wetted mould.

Austria's New Flag.

Austria's new national flag consists of three horizontal stripes, the top and bottom being red and the centre white.

For Polish Jews.

Two women delegates of the Jewish Women's Federation of Poland (Moses Minkler and Rochel) are at present in London to collect funds for the relief of 10,000 Jewish orphans who are poor victims of the war and of the pogroms in Eastern Galicia.

SELECTED RECIPES

Clouded Jelly

When stirring the jelly powder into the water before you add two tablespoonfuls of thick cream, and stir briskly for three or four minutes. Then allow to set at the usual way.

Sugar Koly-Poly

Roll out some pastry rather thick, then a layer of brown sugar, on this some very finely chopped candied peel, and another layer of crumbs. Roll up, brush over the edges with milk, and dredge with fine sugar. Bake for thirty minutes, or boil for two hours (in a cloth). Serve with syrup.

Rice Cake

Mix together four ounces of butter, or lard, four ounces of ground rice, four ounces of sultana, half a pound of flour, one whole egg, two ounces of sugar, a teaspoonful of baking powder, and just enough milk to moisten the whole. Bake in a buttered tin from thirty-five to forty minutes. Dust the top of the cake with castor sugar.

An Excellent Potato Dish

To a cup of milk add a tablespoonful each of flour and butter. When smooth add four tablespoonfuls of grated cheese. Have mashed potatoes, whipped very light and well seasoned with butter, arranged in a mound on a platter. Scoop out the centre and spread the white of an egg over all. Fill the well with the sauce, sprinkle with bread-crumbs, and brown in the oven.

Apple Cheesecake

Required: One cupful of apple pulp, two-thirds of a cupful of powdered sugar, four eggs, the rind and juice of one lemon. Pare, core, and boil sufficient apples to make one-half of a pound when cooked. Add to these the sugar and butter, melted, then the eggs, leaving out two of the whites, and the grated rind and juice of one lemon. Stir the mixture well; fill the pastry cases, and bake together for about twenty minutes.

Mustard Sauce

This goes well with herring, and is less costly than mustard butter. Slice two large onions, and fry them in one ounce of margarine or fresh dripping. When they are a pale brown, dredge in half a tablespoonful of flour, add one tablespoonful of vinegar, a seasoning of salt and pepper, and stir well. Now add half a pint of stock, and simmer for thirty minutes, stirring it often. Last of all, stir in one tablespoonful of made mustard.

Current Cake

Into seven teacups (one and three-quarters of a pound) of flour rub a half pound of butter or lard, then add three teacups (three-quarters of a pound) of plumped currants, and two teacups (half a pound) of moist sugar. Rub free from lumps a teaspoonful each of bicarbonate of soda and cream of tartar, add a quarter teaspoonful each of nutmeg and salt, then mix with the flour. With two beaten eggs mix a half pint of milk, and pour it in. Bake in well greased and papered tins in a moderate oven.

White Sauce

In a small saucepan heat a piece of butter the size of a large walnut, add a heaped teaspoonful of flour, and stir over the fire for a few minutes. The result should be a thick smooth paste, therefore, when any butter remains unabsorbed sprinkle in a little more flour, and when dry flour is in evidence, moisten by adding more butter. Add a small teacupful of chicken stock, season to taste, stir and boil for a few minutes, and use as required.

A SERIES OF ARTICLES DEALING WITH VARIOUS WESTERN QUESTIONS

COLD-BLOODED POLICY

There is at present a senate committee of the United States investigating the naval conduct of the war by the government of that country.

Admiral Sims of the U. S. Navy has been a witness before it, and has given some remarkable testimony.

It is patent that despite the high-sounding altruistic utterances of the President in regard to the cause of humanity, no nation, not even the smallest Balkan state, which entered it on the side of the Allies, allowed themselves to be guided by such cold-blooded selfishness as the United States of America.

Admiral Sims states that he received a statement of policy from the naval department which declared in effect that while it was the intention to co-operate in the war to the fullest extent, such co-operation was conditional first, upon adequate defence of home waters, and next upon the future position of the United States after the war was finished.

There is no reason to doubt the veracity of the admiral, and comment upon this situation is therefore superfluous. It is a revelation of selfishness seldom equalled in international history. The most charitable construction to be placed upon it is that the hands of the administration were fettered by party politics, which have contributed more to the discredit of the United States in international affairs than any other agency.

BRITAIN ASSISTS CANADIAN IMMIGRATION

The British government, for the first time in its history, is undertaking emigration work in respect to Canada. The Overseas Settlement Committee has been established under its auspices and it is decidedly sympathetic towards Canada.

At a recent sitting of the British House of Commons a Liberal provision was made in the supplementary estimates for the work of this organization, which includes in its programme the providing of free passages to Canada for selected ex-soldiers and women. The government spokesman in the House declared that if ex-soldiers thought that better prospects awaited them in Canada than at home, they should be given every opportunity to try their luck there.

This attitude on the part of the Mother of Parliaments is more than encouraging, and is one of the results of the closer relationship between the Old Country and this Dominion which has been brought about by the war.

We want all the British people we can get, and then some more. The strength and purity of British institutions have been proven in the furnace heat of the late great conflict, and in this new country we cannot improve upon the wholesome British atmosphere, which cannot fail to be created by the settlement here of many British people.

BRITAIN STRONG AND SOLVENT

Great Britain, despite the tremendous drains that were made upon her during the great conflict, is in a sound financial position.

The other day the Chancellor of the Exchequer stated that it was decided not to renew the Anglo-Franco loan in the United States. Great Britain in providing her half had no intention of borrowing outside of the United Kingdom, so that when the loan is repaid the external indebtedness of the Mother Country will have been reduced by about fifty millions of pounds.

Steadily and strongly Britain is adjusting her finances which were disrupted by the war and vindicating her position as the financial centre of the world. Her burdens have been enormous. There has not been one of the allied nations, with the exception of America, to which she has not loaned great sums, besides engaging in expenditures on her own account so large that they stagger belief.

Her present strong and solvent position is a wonderful tribute to the financial genius of her statesmen and people.

MAKING RAIN IN THE WEST

The dry season which prevailed in south western Saskatchewan and Alberta during last year has turned the attention of many people to the possibility of inducing a fall of moisture by means of canonizing or explosions.

Some experiments were conducted in the arid states of the southern portion of the American Union about ten years ago under the auspices of the Federal Department of Agriculture, but as no definite results were obtained, the government withdrew from the operations.

The rain makers persist, however, and this summer they are to conduct some experiments in Southern Alberta under the auspices of the Alberta Municipalities Union.

You may talk about your oil fields or gold mines till the cows come home, but the man who can discover a way to induce the clouds to give down their moisture at the word of command may have the earth and most of the things that are in it for his very own.

Preparing Plans for Prohibition Referendum

There is to be another vote on prohibition in Alberta. The date has yet to be settled, but it may be in the near future. This is the result of the action of the legislature in formally requesting the Dominion government to conduct a referendum in this province on the question of the importation of liquor into the province, according to the Canada Temperance Act as amended by the Federal parliament at the session proceeding the present one.
The date is to be settled by the Dominion government, which must issue the proclamation setting forth the day for such referendum within three months of the receipt of the request of the early summer. Serious consideration is also being given to a proposal to have the vote on this matter taken in several, and perhaps all the provinces of Canada on the same date as there is every probability that other provinces contemplate similar referendums. Saskatchewan has, in fact, already presented its request to the Alberta; Manitoba is likely to act very soon, while proposals to the same effect are now before the governments of Ontario, British Columbia and Nova Scotia, with the prospects that the others will follow very soon.

Says Elevators

Cheats the Farmers

A demand voiced by W. A. Has (government), Peace River, that a committee be appointed to take over evidence regarding alleged cheating and expropriation of farmers by elevator interests; an attack by Dr. T. H. Blou (opposition), South Calgary, on alleged squandering of provincial funds in the construction of the McArthur line; and an appeal by Mrs. L. C. Mc-Kinney, (New-Farmers League)
Calgary, that the government expend more funds in prevention of disease and the segregation and care of mentally defective adults were the leading features of three speeches on the budget at the Friday afternoon session of the house.

Mrs. R. R. included in his attack on the elevator interests of the United Grain Growers' concern, demanding what the use was of the government getting behind the various schemes to aid the farmers if the farmer was going to be "robbed" in the fashion he described.
He denounced the relationship between the U. G. G. and the Alberta Co-operative Elevator Company, and declared that it was an error to assume that the interests of Alberta grain growers were the same as those of the grain growers in other provinces.

BE CAREFUL OF FIRES.

Owing to the shortage of feed considerable live stock has been lost during the present winter. As the months of April and May is a very critical time for stock which has been poorly wintered (being in a weakened condition), the importance of conserving the grass on the pasture and hay lands is of the greatest importance if losses are to be kept at a minimum.

This being the case extra precaution should be taken to prevent the spreading of prairie fires which are so common in the spring. In this connection the Chief Fire Guardian is issuing warnings to the general public, and is reminding them of the severe penalties for carelessness in starting fires of this kind.

GET A CADET CORPS.

In another column of this issue is an article giving particulars with reference to the forming of cadet corps in connection with schools throughout this province. This movement is being encouraged both by the Department of Education and the Militia Department, and a fund set apart by the late Lord Strathcona has been placed at the disposal of provincial officials to help finance the movement.

In a town like this where there is so little for our bigger school boys to do in their spare time, it would be a good idea if advantage were taken of this opportunity. With the large number of trained soldiers now in our midst it should not be a very difficult matter to secure a capable leader and instructor for this purpose.

We have no doubt that if boys themselves became interested in this movement they would get the necessary support and encouragement from the town officials and citizens generally. It is worth trying anyway boys. What's the matter with the high school pupils taking it up in connection with their literary society.

Good domestic seed wheat is supposed to be selling in Alberta at about $2.27 a bushel and No. 1 milling wheat at somewhere around $2.50, yet dirty, broken up wheat is selling for chicken feed at $5.00 a hundred or $3.00 a bushel! Still the government will try to make us believe that the Commerce Board justifies its existence.

Most of the land on which our Canadian forests now stand is not suitable for agriculture but it is suitable for growing fine crops of trees to keep our saw mills, our wagon factories, our furniture factories, and our paper mills running at full force forever. Let us all take part in protecting our valuable forests. Fire is their enemy. Therefore, be careful with fire.

A young man called up the station the other day and enquired if there was a parcel there for him. "Eatons?" asked the clerk at the other end. "No, Drinkins" replied the enquirer.

An exchange says: "Women are rapidly emancipating them-

Move in Scotland

Englishmen are swarming with great interest the outcome of the local operation campaign which is now proceeding throughout Scotland. Many members of parliament believe the new proposal, favoured by the Labor party and strongly supported in the Unionist and Liberal sections of parliament, to give the franchise to all women of 21 years of age instead of 30, would mean an early adoption of strong pro-hibitionary measures. Canada's recent legislation is frequently mentioned as the consequence of the women's vote.

U.S. Senate Again

The treaty of Versailles failed of ratification for the fourth time in the United States senate and then the senate voted to send it back to President Wilson with a notification that it had finally "refused" to advise and consent to its ratification.
On the decisive roll call the senate was 49 for ratification to 35 against, the opposition numbering in its ranks 30 Democrats who were unwilling to send the treaty go through with the Republican reservations objected by the Democrats, and three Democrats and 18 Republicans irrationally.
Twenty-one Democrats voted for ratification, but the defection from the Republican side in providing the two thirds requisite to ratify.

Gives the Hat Right

To Increase Taxes

Medicine Hat was given the right to institute a tax on rental values of all properties by the municipal laws committees of the legislature which considered amendments to the Hat charter Friday morning. The tax will be ten per cent of the rental value of property and will be collected from all occupants of property, whether owners or tenants.

The city was also given the right to institute a poll tax of $10 per person which, however, is offset against any other taxes paid, so that it will catch only those who pay no other taxes to the city. In addition the city was authorized to raise its business rental tax from six to ten per cent.

Lord Mayor of Cork

Shot at His Home

The Lord Mayor of Cork was shot down at 1 o'clock last Friday morning.
The revolver was fired by masked men, whose identity is unknown. They entered his residence and after firing the shot escaped in an automobile.
A half dozen men knocked at the door of the home of the lord mayor, Thomas Maguire. Mrs. Maguire opened the door and the men rushed in. Some of them held her while others ran upstairs to the mayor's apartment. They took him to the landing and shot him in the chest. They then fled hurriedly.

The PERSONAL SIDE

PROMINENT WESTERN CHARACTERS—SOME INTIMATE ANECDOTES OF PEOPLE WE ALL KNOW

LORD ABERDEEN, A FORMER GOVERNOR-GENERAL

Lord Aberdeen, who for a number of years was Governor-General of Canada, has recently celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of his succession to the peerage, and the family estates. He belongs to a very ancient Scottish house and both the Huntly Gordons and the Arvan Hamiltons, figure in his "lang pedegres."

He was at his ancestral home of Haddo House on the occasion of this anniversary, which was made the opportunity of a demonstration on the part of his tenants and friends.

Lord Aberdeen, although not a very dominant personality, nor possessed of brilliant or spectacular gifts, has filled a large place in the public vision for the last thirty-five years.

The manner in which he came to the title was dramatic. He was the third son of the old Earl of Aberdeen, and was therefore not looked upon as having much chance of succeeding to the Earldom. The brother next in age to him, however, was killed in a shooting accident whilst at Cambridge; and the heir apparent Lord Haddo went on a long voyage as a sailor. During the course of this voyage his father died, and preparations were made to greet the young mariner at the end of his journey as the new Earl. A trusted family lawyer, according to the approved style of Miss Braddon and Edna Lyell, hurried by fast steamer to some distant port to salute him on landing as "My Lord."

This was not carried out for the simple reason that he never turned up, either then or at any future time. His fate remains shrouded in mystery. He was somewhat eccentric, and for a long time many people believed that he was still alive. Before assuming the title the present Lord Aberdeen instituted the most comprehensive search for his brother but without any result.

Lord Aberdeen is said to have owed a good deal of his preference to his wife, a strong aggressive woman whose relatives were very influential in British political circles. She is a member of the Scottish family of Majorbanks, and her brother, the late Lord Tweedmouth, was for a number of years the Liberal whip. His career closed rather ingloriously. He was on very friendly terms with our old friend the Kaiser, and some correspondence, which he had with him of was of such an indirect nature, that he just naturally disappeared from the ken of the British public.

W. E. Gladstone always played the Earl of Aberdeen for a favorite, rather to the surprise of his contemporaries, and he sent him to Ireland as Lord Lieutenant shortly after the Phoenix Park troubles. He made a good Viceroy, although he was not sufficiently interested in horse racing to altogether please the Irish taste.

Subsequently he was appointed Governor General of Canada, where he took considerable interest in the affairs of the country, and Lady Aberdeen established the National Council of Women, which for some time furnished reading matter to some settlers in outlying districts, and gave prominent ladies practice in running for office.

The Aberdeens also gave a considerable impetus to British Columbia fruit growing by purchasing the Coldstream ranch in the Okanagan Valley and engaging in the industry.

He came in for a good deal of praise at the hands of the followers of Sir Wilfrid Laurier and censure at the hands of the Conservatives for refusing to confirm certain political appointments made by Sir Charles Tupper before relinquishing the reins of power.

On returning to Britain he was again appointed Viceroy of Ireland where he had rather an uneventful tenure of office.

During the war Lord and Lady Aberdeen were very active in the United States in soliciting aid for certain Irish orphans. They were in the United States for a long time on this mission, and in the kindest and most democratic manner possible gave a number of American clergymen and ladies an opportunity of shaking hands with some enough nobility. Their industry in regard to the orphans brought them into conflict with the District Attorney of New York. But he is reported to have been a very arbitrary man who had not much experience in dealing with members of the nobility.

Lord Aberdeen has filled many important positions under the British Government and he is regarded as a very well meaning, conscientious official. He is a very strong adherent of the "old kirk" of Scotland and at one time held state and semibre in the ancient palace of Holyrood as representative of the Sovereign to the General Assembly of the Scottish church.

Not so very long ago the Aberdeens visited Winnipeg and as a tribute to their consequence were invited to address the Canadian Club. At least Lord Aberdeen was asked, to speak to the men of the organization, and Lady Aberdeen to the ladies.

Both addresses were given in the same building contemporaneously, but in different apartments. At the conclusion of Lord Aberdeen's speech the usual vote of thanks was passed. Subsequently the chairman, a well known Winnipeg lawyer who was quite overpowered by the solemnity of the occasion, rose again to his feet and said:

"I wish to move a vote of thanks to Lady Aberdeen for allowing her noble and distinguished husband to address us on this inspiring and memorable occasion." At this juncture some person of great presence of mind stood up and started the National Anthem.

A GOOD CITIZEN — DR. McRAE AND THE EMPTYES

Dr. McRae, the Principal of Western Canada College in Canada, who accompanied Mayor Brown on his recent trip through the West in connection with the establishment of a Western Land Settlement Board, delighted his hearers with the concise, entertaining and meaty speeches which he made.

In Regina he told a very good story. In a jocular way he accused Mayor Brown of stealing his thunder, and in this connection related the following anecdote.

He said that whilst he was a divinity student in Edinburgh, he observed that it was the habit of the most prominent clergymen of that religious city to take their vacation in the summer months.

It was incredible that an Edinburgh pulpit should be vacant, therefore, arrangements were made for men from outside parishes to do the preaching.

One Monday morning Dr. McRae with some other students was hanging around the platform of the Waverley Station, and he saw a procession of these temporary incumbents of city pulpits on their way back to their out-of-town parishes. As they came down the stairs with their black funeral garb and flapping coats, he overheard one Scotch railwayman say to the other:

"Say, Sandy, who are these fellows?"

"Auch," said Sandy, "they are the empties being shipped back to the places they come from."

Apart from a story teller's ability, altogether, Dr. McRae is a splendid citizen of this country, and he has built up in Calgary one of the most successful boys' colleges in Canada. Four hundred of his former pupils went to the war and 40 of them were killed.

He belongs to one of those Highland families which have been long settled in Nova Scotia and which have spread their sons in all sorts of useful positions about the Dominion. One brother of Dr. McRae is the manager of R. G. Dunn in Regina, whilst another was a Western inspector of the Royal Bank and has recently gone to New York to assume an important position with the same concern. They are all good citizens.

THE PASSING OF A GREAT CHURCHMAN ARCHBISHOP LEGAL

With the death of Archbishop Legal, which occurred at Edmonton quite recently, another of the great pioneer churchmen, who did so much for this Western Country, passed away.

There was a great colic of missionaries of the Roman Catholic church who penetrated into the Great Lone Land in advance of settlement, and were not content with implanting the tenets of their faith in the minds of the native people, but established friendly relations with the Indian tribes and contributed in no small degree to their material advancement.

There was, of course, first and foremost, the great prelate, Archbishop Tache of St. Boniface. His influence amongst the native population was tremendous, and he ruled his wide diocese, which ran west from the Red River to the Rocky Mountains, and north to the Arctic Circle, with wisdom and impartiality. He was a collateral descendant of De La Ver-dys, the greatest of all the French explorers and gentlemen of the old regime in Canada. It was under his auspices that such men came to the west, as Father Lacombe, whose services both to his church and his country cannot be overestimated; Father Hugonard, that splendid, sterling character, who spent a lifetime devoted to Indian education, and who died at the Qu'Appelle Mission about two years ago; Father Lebray, for whom the beautiful little village on the Qu'Appelle Lakes is named; Bishop Grandin of St. Albert; Bishop, Reginald of Prince Albert, a venerable prelate who still continues his administrative; and Bishop Legal who has so recently concluded a long life, the main part of which has been spent in Western Canada.

Like many of the pioneer priests, which France sent out to the Hinterlands of civilization, he was a native of France, that portion of France of which its inhabitants are fond of saying persisted longest in its devotion to its church and its king.

There is a pronounced strain of the original Celtic race distinctly noticeable amongst the inhabitants of Brittany, and Bishop Legal as a lad spoke the Celtic tongue, which still lingers amongst people of these coasts, and learned French in school as a foreign language. He was born seventy-one years ago, and went through his theological studies at Nantes, where he was ordained to the priesthood in 1874. For a number of years he was professor of mathematics at the seminary of Nantes, but he became very much interested in missionary work, owing to meeting a number of priests who had been engaged in it in Canada. In 1879 he entered the novitiate of the Oblate Order, but before his course was completed he came to Canada and he concluded his probation at a House of the Order in Lachine, near Montreal.

In 1897, the advancing age of Bishop Grandin, the venerable prelate of St. Albert, made it imperative that a co-adjutor be appointed and Monsignor Legal was consecrated to the office. On the death of Bishop Grandin in 1902, he became the sole incumbent of the see. In 1912 he was appointed Archbishop of Edmonton.

He was one of the last of that splendid coterie of missionaries who came to the North-West during the regime of Monsignor Tache.

Some Conversations

The Telephone carried 21,845,722, 235 messages or conversations in the United States last year. There were 53,234 separate systems, with 11,716,520 telephones and 28,827,188 miles of wire, and employing 262,522 persons, of whom 65 per cent. were women. In ten years the number of telephones had more than doubled.

The Price of a Head

Herr Sonnenfeld, who accused Herr Schindemann of having promised a reward of 1,000,000 marks for the head of Rosa Luxemburg, has been committed for trial by the Berlin Court.

Elephant's Milk

A baby elephant naturally consumes a somewhat large quantity of milk daily. But in London the keeper of a place of amusement has been refused, by the Hingston Food Control Committee, a permit to buy the necessary quantity. "No baby elephant should have milk required for human consumption," said the chairman. "If this animal were given, we might be asked to do the same thing for baby tigers, baboons, giraffes and so on. No one can tell where it would end."

"MARY HAD A LITTLE LAMB"

Japanese Apply Severe Tortures Upon Koreans

Dreadful Methods Used to Extort Confessions

BEATINGS INFLECTED AND TOE NAILS ORDERED TO BE TORN OUT

"The efforts of the new Japanese Administration of Korea to recover the confidence of the Korean people are largely nullified by official maltreatment of Koreans," says the Tokio correspondent of the Daily Express.

"While the use of paddles and flogging is publicly abolished, the Government, police officials regularly use torture upon the suspects."

The following particulars of the methods employed are furnished by Dr. Frank Schofield, of the Severance Mission Hospital, Seoul.

"Case 1—An educated young man, punished with 90 blows of the paddle for complicity in the independence movement, and released after six weeks' imprisonment, was rearrested and questioned with regard to the bomb that was thrown at Admiral Saito. During the police examination he was seven times suspended from the ceiling by a cord tied around his wrists; on five occasions his head was forced back and tied to his hands, which had been fastened behind his back; water was poured down his nostrils off and on during a period of four days, and for a further period of three days soap and water were substituted for plain water.

"As a last expedient in this line, pepper tea was used; the reaction was so severe that the young man became unconscious. All these methods having failed, the police ordered his toe nails to be extracted. The Korean torturer, instead, pushed a piece of flesh from the inside of the small toe, which caused profuse bleeding and satisfied the police.

"Case 2—A young man charged with printing the 'Independence' newspaper, refused to give the names of his accomplices. He was beaten unconscious three times in six days and once by hot irons. When seen by the doctors he was a physical wreck.

"Case 3—A Korean young woman, also educated, was beaten so violently over the head that an abscess formed in one eye, and her knee and hip joints were twisted to the verge of dislocation. She was 'thoroughly spat upon.'

"One result of such methods is naturally the production of false evidence and the prosecution of innocent people. Another is the creation of a conviction in the Korean mind that promises of reform are for foreign consumption under Japanese rule. Such are the evil results of ten years of military rule."

A PEARFUL EXAMPLE

Petrie Kinsburgh, alias William Lockett, 37, negro, was electrocuted at Louisville, Kentucky, a few days ago for the murder of Geneva Hardman, 10-year-old school girl. Two brothers and two uncles of the child were in the front row of spectators. They led a score of men from their neighborhood to witness the execution. During Lockett's trial in Lexington six men were killed when a mob tried to take him from the courthouse. Lockett told the jail officials he had killed four women in the past ten years.

BRITAIN'S FINANCIAL CONVALESCENCE

Austen Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer, discussing in the House of Commons the decision not to renew the Anglo-French loan in the United States, stated that Great Britain, in providing her half had no intention of re-borrowing outside the United Kingdom any part of the sum required, so that when the loan is repaid Great Britain will have cut down her external debt by more than £50,000,000. The Chancellor added: "We shall employ for the purpose resources already available in the United States and to the extent to which they are not sufficient we shall ship gold. We have already made a beginning by buying Anglo-French bonds in the market at a considerable discount below par."

Meteor Described by Manitoba Missionary

Do meteors hiss?

Rev. A. J. Warwick, Anglican missionary at Shovel River, Man., in an interesting letter to the Free Press, dated March 8, asserts they do. Here is his letter:

"On Saturday evening about 9.30 I was returning across the river, near the mission, on this reserve. I had reached the foot of the bank, and for a moment I had missed the narrow footpath, and was with my face turned northward, feeling for the track. It was very dark, being about a quarter of an hour or so before the full moon should rise.

"All at once there was a brilliancy through the whole air, and I turned upward, to see a most intensely white meteor, in appearance about twice the apparent size of the planet Jupiter, and issuing from that point.

"The meteor itself was of white heat, glowing apparently like the bulb of an incandescent lamp. Streaks of very vivid sparks trailed at all angles behind, and the whole river side was as though lighted by an electric bulb. The meteor followed a course to the east, maintaining apparently the same height above the earth, until it disappeared behind the high trees, sinking in the direction the moon would later arise from.

Distinctly Hears Hissing

"There was one peculiarity which I must not forget to notice. The sound of hissing, which was continuous, was without doubt present, along the whole course of the phenomenon; and was not a supposition on my part. It was present with the light, the sparks, and the meteor.

"I know there has been much discussion in days past, as to the existence of this hissing sound, but I can never again doubt the reality of it.

"May I assure you, that by the help of this light, I immediately discovered the position of the narrow trail."

"To remove paint from clothes, soak a rag in spirits of turpentine and rub the paint stain as soon as possible after the dress has been soiled. As the rag becomes soaked use a clean piece. Two or three applications may be required.

Tomato Sandwiches

Tomatoes make excellent sandwiches. To skin them, drop one at a time into a basin of boiling water for a few seconds, then take a sharp knife, and the skin will come off easily. Put the tomatoes—two will make quite a lot of sandwiches—into a bowl, add one teaspoonful of vinegar, two teaspoonfuls of olive oil, salt, pepper, and mash all up together with a silver fork. Spread on buttered bread and cut into fingers.

Sacred Cedars Vanish From Palestine Home

The cedars of Lebanon have almost disappeared from their native home in the picturesque mountains of Palestine. Trees 2,000 years old, that passed their infancy a hundred years before the opening of the Christian era, were cut to supply fuel for military locomotives during the war.

"The wholesale destruction of wonderful works of art during the war," says a recent writer, "brought forth groans that were heard around the world, but the woodchoppers without a number being heard in the world outside, has destroyed this living thing that for centuries has been used as a symbol of physical strength by nations glorified except in the pages of history."

These beautiful giants thrived best in their native home in the mountains of Lebanon in Palestine just south of Beirut. Their wood is so durable that Pliny, the Roman historian, said it was everlasting. For this reason the ancients made of it their gods.

The Arabs regarded the trees as endowed with the principle of immortality, and when the great age of some individual specimens is considered, they had very good reason for holding this belief. They also credited the trees with reasoning powers.

Timbers unearthed by excavators in the ruins of the ancient Assyrian cities were found to be cedars of Lebanon, passing through 2,000 years of various vicissitudes.

The cedar forests, which were historic when the armies of Sennacherib laid them waste in 608 B.C., as recorded in the Bible, and which are beautifully mentioned in the Psalms of David, have now been ravaged by the Turks to feed their locomotives which drew trains between the military station at Beirut and the ancient capital at Damascus.

This destruction was made imperative by the severance of all outside supplies of coal. The conquerors of the Turks, it is said, continued the practice. "It became a common sight to see long lines of automobile trucks of the invaders make their way to the 'godly mountains' for a load of the wood," says the writer quoted above.

The cedars of Lebanon have the reputation of being particularly fragrant. In ancient times the oil of this tree was thought to have curative properties and as such was applied to the body by those suffering from leprosy. The Romans used the oil for the preservation of their manuscripts.

The great size of individual trees produced a profound impression upon the beholder. The trunk often reached the girth of forty-two feet, which is not begrudging even when compared with the giants of the Californian forests. A height of ninety feet was common and with this is to be considered the fact that the spread of the tree's branches exceeded this measurement.

If a lemon is put in a warm oven for a few minutes before squeezing, much more juice can be extracted than in the ordinary way, but the oven must not be too hot or the lemon left in too long, as it would dry up.

When washing doorsteps in frosty weather use lukewarm water, into which put a good handful of coarse salt. This prevents the water from freezing, and is far more effective than sprinkling salt on the steps after they have been cleaned.

Franchise Bill And Some of Its Promises

Uniformity of Voting Throughout Dominion

SIMPLE METHOD FOR THE CONDUCT OF ELECTIONS

The purpose of the franchise bill recently introduced in the commons is threefold.

First it fixes a uniform franchise throughout the Dominion; secondly, it provides a uniform method for the preparation of voters' lists; thirdly, it provides a simple and satisfactory method for the conduct of elections.

In presenting the bill, Mr. Guthrie said that under its terms the franchise had been established upon very broad principles. The only requirements would be those of British citizenship, residence in Canada for one year, and in the particular constituency for two months, and the attaining of the age of 21 years.

These requirements would apply alike in the case of male and female voters.

In regard to the preparation of the voters' lists, the principle adopted was that existing provincial lists in any province where authorized by law for use in provincial elections, could be utilized in the case of Dominion elections, providing the lists were not more than 12 months old, or more than 12 months had elapsed since the compilation of such lists and the issue of writs for a Dominion election.

He would make a remuneration of the voters in a polling subdivision. When his lists were completed they would be returned to the proper office. In this case, however, there was no revision or appeal, because a further provision in the act provided that any person who claimed to be entitled to vote and whose name had been omitted in a rural division would be entitled on polling day, on taking the prescribed election oath, to a ballot paper and cast his vote.

Machinery for holding an election as provided in the bill, was not very different from that at present in use. There would be no innovations, however, The act proposed to abolish the office of the clerk of the crown in chancery and to create instead a chief electoral officer.

This office would have charge of elections and the duties of the officer in charge would be very similar to those of the general returning officer in the election of 1917. He would be a permanent official. The bill also provides for the holding of advanced polls in order to enable soldiers, sailors and others who were unable to vote on election day, to cast their ballots. The period fixed between nomination day and polling day, by the bill, was 14 days.

Mr. Guthrie closed by saying that the intention of the bill was to bring about uniformity in voting throughout Canada and to promote safety and simplicity. An examination of the bill would, he thought, convince members that it was founded upon principles of equality and justice.

In answer to questions by Mr. W. D. Euler, Mr. Guthrie stated that persons precluded from voting under the Naturalization Act would not be permitted to vote by the new law. He also said that any person, disqualified by

HOW SCOTLAND MAY GO DRY

A special correspondent of the Daily Graphic says the only way Scotland is likely to go dry is by Canada draining her of whiskey. "Greatly increased area is being sown with barley, and the correspondent declares he has seen evidence in the hands of a whiskey exporting firm that Canada is prepared to take more whiskey than Scotland can supply."

"Send us more," says the correspondent. "According to the correspondent a Scottish distiller scoffed at the idea of prohibition in Scotland, adding: 'Prohibition in Canada is a farce, and we have a spirit distillery here that can produce more whiskey than we can spare.'"

Sad Case of Suicide On Alberta Farm

Leaving the chum on which he was working, and not a word to his brother, who was sitting in a chair a few feet away, Anton Richter, of Elk Point, in the St. Paul de Meis district of Alberta, picked up a .35 calibre automatic rifle, walked from the house into the yard, and instantly blew off the top of his head. Coroner and police, who investigated the fatality, decided the case to be a clear one of suicide, and accordingly brought in a decision to that effect, deciding that an inquest was unnecessary.

Particulars of the suicide, as received by the Edmonton division of the Alberta provincial police, show that deceased was 35 years of age, unmarried, and was living with his brother and a housekeeper. Financial worries, according to the evidence of his brother, had resulted in a fit of despondency, and apparently the reason for deceased's act.

Calf's Head Pie

A half calf's head will be sufficient for this pie. Stew a half knuckle of veal in three pints of water, as for roasting. Season with salt and turnip, two onions, a blade of mace, a bunch of parsley and half a parsnip. When ready, remove the meat, strain the liquor and when nearly cold put in the half head, which has been well blanched. Set it to simmer until nearly done. Take it up and remove all bones, and cut the meat into square bits.

Batter Pudding

Cut up one pound of apples and sprinkle them with sugar, then place in the prepared bowl. Put six ounces of flour into a greased pudding basin and add to it a pinch of salt and a teaspoonful of baking powder. Separate the whites from the yolks of an egg, and add a breadsful of milk to the yolks. Gradually mix the egg and milk to the flour, beating vigorously. Beat the white and mix it in, then pour the batter over the apples. Cover with a greased paper, and steam for two hours. Turn out and serve with sugar.

A good way to clean gas mantles or gas burners that are blackened by carbon deposits is to sprinkle salt upon them while burning. This causes the carbon to burn away and prolongs the life of the mantle and increases the efficiency of the light of burner.

reason of race from voting in provincial elections, would also be disqualified in Dominion elections.

War Criminals Rush to Holland For Sanctuary

Germans on Allied List Buying Homes in Holland

DUTCH REAL ESTATE CONSEQUENTLY RISING IN VALUE

There is great activity in the real estate market in The Hague and in Amsterdam due to the influx of Germans, the names of some of whom are to be found in the war criminals' list. The Grand Duke of Hesse, who, with eight others not yet identified, but who are known to be on the list, has just purchased a sumptuous home here and is having it handsomely furnished for early residence.

Meanwhile other titled Germans are being sent to Holland for indefinite residence, or, at least, to remain here until the trial term has passed. The purchase by the Grand Duke of Hesse is, however, the only one officially confirmed.

Dutch officials, when asked whether any measures would be taken to prevent the entrance of Germans into Holland, said that, at least, to remain here until the trial term has passed. The purchase by the Grand Duke of Hesse is, however, the only one officially confirmed.

They said that in so far as extradition was concerned they would not cross the hypothetical bridge until they came to it, but believed that if Germany conducted the trials, any extradition demand coming from Germany would automatically be honored, as Germany has the right to demand her own nationals. However, opinion in Holland has minimized the possibility of any difficulty in this connection and of the possibility of the Germans higher up ever being tried.

Meanwhile the Dutch are finding that the wealthy German refugees are good spenders. Holland is full of wealthy Germans, who entered this country after the armistice with many marks which then were near normal in value. At that time they converted their marks into guilders, which now are appreciated about as are dollars, with the result that these Germans now are wealthier than they were when they came to Holland, before the mark tumbled.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Lee, who has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. F. Bellis for the past 10 days, returned to Montreal, Que., last Saturday.

The Stair Dam, just north of town, was badly damaged again this week by the rush of surface water. Considerable damage was also done to the grade by the overflow.

J. McQuinn, who has been assisting J. L. Wright in his draying business for the past few months, left yesterday for Seven Persons to put in a crop on his farm in that district.

The photo boys "Cleopatra," which has been at the Amuse-U this week, is one of the best that has ever been shown in Redcliff. There was a good attendance both nights.

A dance will be held in the Bowell school house on the evening of Easter Monday, April 5th. Good music is assured for the occasion and all are invited. Admission, 50c. Ladies are requested to bring a cake.

Hon. C. S. Pingle and Mrs. Pingle entertained the cabinet and members to an elaborate dinner in the McDonald hotel, Edmonton, last Friday. Among those present were a number of friends from Medicine Hat.

Messrs. C. V. Gibson and Geo. Ross left on Monday's train for their farms in the Moran district. Mr. Ross intends getting ready to put in his crop while Mr. Gibson, who has sold his farm, has to dispose of some grain and his stock and implements.

Weather conditions have been very unsettled this last week. The beautiful spring-like weather last Sunday made it appear as though spring was here to stay, but the sudden dip on Monday, followed by a slight flurry of snow, showed that winter has still another kick. As a result we are still looking for that March lamb.

J. Baller, of Craik, Sask., was in town for a few days last week visiting his old friend, Geo. Davey. Mr. Baller is so impressed with the activities here and the prospects for the future, that he intends moving his family here to reside. We understand that while here he purchased a house and intends moving here at once.

The Moran children, who have been visiting their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. P. Lavelle, during their mother's illness, left this week for Nanton, to live with their father. Miss May Lavelle still remains here. Although still in hospital Mrs. Moran is now gradually recovering from her recent illness.

The Sunday evening concert given in the Amuse-U theatre last Sunday evening under the auspices of the G. W. V. A. was a great success from every standpoint. The program was put on entirely by Medicine Hat talent with the exception of two numbers by the Collins brothers of this town. Among those from the Hat who took part were Mrs. Simpson, Mrs. Hodges, Miss Rawlinson and Messrs. McDonald and Holmes. Sixteen were thoroughly enjoyed were the different numbers that an encore was demanded in almost every case. The hall was well filled for the occasion and the proceeds were larger than usual.

Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Gibson entertained a number of friends to a pleasant social evening on Thursday evening last. The event was given in honour of their niece, Miss Violet Gibson, who left the following day for Moose Jaw to commence her new duties with the Chateaufort Company, and also as a farewell for Messrs. G. G. Patterson and E. P. Argue, who left Redcliff last Sunday. The Gibson & Tupper store was used for the purpose and it was tastefully fitted up for the occasion. During the first part of the evening progressive whist was played. In this the winners were Mr. A. N. Collard and G. G. Patterson, while the consolation went to Mrs. J. Calderwood and H. W. Ha-per. Before the card tables were cleared away a most delicious lunch was served, after which dancing was the order of the evening. On the whole the evening was one of the most enjoyable of the season.

Mrs. Wm. Shearer and family, of Lethbridge, are visiting Mrs. (Dr.) Shearer this week.

St. Ambrose W. A. will hold their Easter sale of work on Wednesday, April 7th, in the Parish hall. In the afternoon tea will be served from 3 to 6 o'clock. In the evening there will be a what drive and social evening commencing at 8 o'clock. Admission in the evening 50c.
